(BURIAL PACKAGING)

Technical Papers

Reference: [redacted] dated 7 October 1955

1. When we originally prepared [redacted] technical papers for shipment we were precluded from sending several pieces of material. Several papers were sterilized and others withdrawn. Hence the black booklet ceased to exist as such. However, we are under the impression that the photographs were sent.

2. At any rate, I have gone through my files in an attempt to locate what you are missing, and dig up anything that might be of value. [redacted] is also contributing some material from his files which may fill out the gaps in your reference library.

3. The above mentioned material is being handcarried to you by [redacted] who will probably deliver it to [redacted] on or about 7 November.

4. If [redacted] still has a gap in the material he originally possessed, please specify what he needs and we will attempt to shake it loose from his former associates. On the other hand, we suggest you outline what would be of particular value in the future and we will make every attempt to afford a continuous flow of the latest data.

5. We hope the material we are forwarding will alleviate your problems.

SUBJECT: GENERAL-
SPECIFIC- Technical Papers

1. Partial shipment of the technical papers has been received. However upon receipt it was discovered that the black booklet containing photographs and the sterilized world wide consolidation of caching reports was missing. It is requested that this booklet be expedited to

2. There is an amazing lack of information on matters of this sort throughout this area, and we anticipate this information will prove of considerable value. Techniques described in these reports will also be used in our extensive two year area wide caching test program just getting under way.
